"I chose Kean Miller over other firms for two reasons. First, the friendly atmosphere and focus on team work sets the firm apart from most others. Second, I was attracted to the firm culture of providing young attorneys with significant opportunities to develop litigation skills early in their practice."

Victor Suane, partner, 2013

Southern University Law Center

"Having a career prior to attending law school helped me realize that who I worked with was more important than the specific practice area I was offered. During a typical work week, you spend more time with your co-workers than you spend with your family. I chose Kean Miller because of the people."

"Working at Kean Miller is one of those jobs everyone hopes to have the opportunity to accept. When I accepted the offer from Kean Miller I knew that I was joining one of the most sophisticated and competent law firms in Louisiana. Additionally, I knew that I was not only joining a firm that worked hard but, also a firm that appreciates and promotes family and the importance of giving back to the community. As an associate, I have been exposed to some of the most brilliant attorneys with vibrant personalities, real drive and amazing energy. It was not simply lip service when I was told that Kean Miller attorneys go out of their way to mentor new associates; the attorneys truly have an open door policy. There is always someone who will help you, or someone who will answer your questions. Not only do I feel like I am contributing to the firm through my work, I feel that I have learned and grown tremendously both on a personal and professional level through my experiences at Kean Miller."

"A new attorney is nothing more than an apprentice; we have much to learn and the relationship with one's teacher defines success. I selected Kean Miller because their attorneys had unparalleled knowledge and skills and the patience to pass it on to me."

Erin Tadie
LSU Law Center, 2010

“I have lived in Baton Rouge all my life, and I know that Kean Miller is one of the most recognized and respected law firms in this city. It is an amazing confidence boost to know that, as an attorney, I work with the best and most experienced legal practitioners around.”

Brittany Buckley Salup
Tulane University Law School, 2010

“Kean Miller was a good fit for me because of the collegial atmosphere and opportunities for hands-on learning. During my two summers as a law clerk, I noticed and appreciated the fact that the attorneys at Kean Miller truly enjoyed interacting with each other, both at work and outside of the office. I also recognized that the young lawyers at Kean Miller were not spending all of their time drafting research memoranda but were taking depositions, arguing motions, and attending client meetings. As one of the newest attorneys at Kean Miller, I have already experienced significant exposure to the courtroom and have formed the type of camaraderie with my colleagues that brought me here.”

Matthew Meiners
LSU Law Center, 2009

“It was clear to me that not only would I be working with excellent attorneys, but these are people I would enjoy being around every day. The firm culture I sampled during my clerkship with Kean Miller was not just a show; it’s the way it is.”

Sean McLaughlin
LSU Law Center, 2008

“The best thing about Kean Miller is the people. The people that I work with on a daily basis are not just co-workers — they are friends. The collegial atmosphere around the office is one of many reasons why Kean Miller is a great place to work.”

PEOPLE FIRST

At Kean Miller, you will find people who respect one another, people who value their clients, and people who give freely of their time and talents to help make Louisiana a better place to live and work. At Kean Miller, we are People First.

RECRUITING

Kean Miller is dedicated to hiring people with the strongest academic records and highest levels of personal achievement. Our primary law student recruiting efforts consist of on-campus interviews in the fall and spring at Louisiana law schools and in-office interviews with students from other law schools around the country.

Our summer program is offered in our Baton Rouge and New Orleans offices and designed to expose the law students to all aspects of the firm's practice. We are flexible in scheduling work hours around classes. We also make an effort to ensure the students have an opportunity to attend hearings, depositions, trials, and client meetings where appropriate.

Each summer associate is paired with an associate liaison, who acts as a mentor to the student for the course of the clerkship. The liaison provides guidance, support, advice, and helps the students get acquainted with other attorneys in the firm.

We continue to seek a more diverse environment by recruiting at all four law schools in Louisiana and regularly participate in the state and regional minority law student job fairs.
